Reading Reflections: 18th Sunday in Ordinary Time

What makes life meaningful? Life makes sense only if we can relate it to lasting values. If persons seek only values that perish, they will never be satisfied. Money and all that it can buy cannot impart lasting happiness. Think of the high suicide rate among the wealthy!

Life is meaningful insofar as it is related to others: fellow human beings and ultimately God in Christ Jesus. Think of people who have meant something to you in the past. These people, parents, teachers, sisters, brothers, friends, partner in marriage, and finally Jesus Christ himself, have all contributed to whatever you are now as a person! Remove one person from this list and you would be different, perhaps less fortunate.

The lesson for the future is obvious. Go on building communication with others. In love, friendship, and dedication relate to others, and do not overlook your direct relationship with God – Jesus Christ through prayerful readings and regular worship.

When we view the little things with thanksgiving, even they become big things.

A little humor:

The young associate pastor was very pleased. It was his first assignment at a busy suburban parish. Why, he even had a real nice office all his own. Sitting there behind his shiny new desk he felt really important. When he spotted a man coming in he wanted to seem busy so he picked up his phone and pretended to have a conversation.

At last he hung up the phone and asked the man who was waiting patiently to see him, “Can I help you?”

“You bet,” said the man. “ I’m here to hook up your phone.”
